MUFFINS and POPOVERS

From the NEW ROYAL COOK BOOK

BREAKFAST is too often eaten as a duty rather than a joy. The success of the day may depend upon the spirit of breakfast. The Royal Educational Department presents some breakfast dishes that will send the children to school with a hip hip hurrah and his majesty man to his daily duties with the "up and doing" feeling which knows no discouragement.

Muffins

2 cups flour
3 teaspoons Royal Baking Powder
1 tablespoon sugar
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 cup milk
2 tablespoons shortening

Sift together flour, baking powder, sugar and salt; add milk, well-beaten eggs and melted shortening; mix well. Grease muffin tins and put two tablespoons of batter into each. Bake in hot oven 20 to 25 minutes.

Eggless Muffins

2 cups flour
4 teaspoons Royal Baking Powder
2 tablespoons sugar
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 cup milk
2 tablespoons shortening

Mix and sift dry ingredients, add milk and melted shortening.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure

"Bake with Royal and be Sure"

ing and beat until smooth. Bake in greased muffin tins in hot oven 20 to 25 minutes.

Corn Muffins

1/2 cup corn meal
1 1/2 cups flour
4 teaspoons Royal Baking Powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons sugar
1 cup milk
2 tablespoons shortening

Sift together corn meal, flour, baking powder, salt and sugar; add milk, melted shortening and well-beaten eggs; mix well. Grease muffin tins and drop two tablespoons of mixture into each. Bake about 35 minutes in hot oven.

Popovers

2 cups flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 eggs
2 cups milk

Sift together flour and salt. Make a well in flour, break eggs into well, add milk and stir until smooth. Pour into hot greased gem pans and bake 25 to 35 minutes in a very hot oven. If taken out of oven too soon they will fall.

WORK AND SMILE

Everyone admits that America needs greater production. Everyone knows there is need of still greater thrift. These doctrines have been preached ever since high prices, unrest and flat pocketbooks aroused the people to the country's economic ills. But America needs something else of which little has been said. She needs a broad, whole-hearted smile.

Addressing the New York State Bankers' association recently at Atlantic City, Eugene Lamb Richards, former superintendent of banks in New York, urges smiles as part of the diet of business men. He pointed out that with the armistice the country's business was left sick and uncertain and has had a slow recovery. The same condition is true of virtually every economic force. Too many have spent their time fretting about the future instead of improving the present. They forget that the future will very largely take care of itself if everyone does his work well today.

Many have come forward with sound opinions on the cause of the nation's ills. Few have recommended remedies. Fewer still have taken the medicine prescribed. But, as has been demonstrated in the last two months, application of sound remedies bring good results. The thrifty attitude of the public turned the cost of living downward more quickly than credit reduction or anything else. In order to reduce prices the remedy of increased production must be generally applied.

If abundant goods are produced the country will prosper and prices will continue their downward course. If production is large the markets will be filled and every dollar will buy more. But few business men can accomplish a great deal if they constantly have a grouse, and few workmen can do good work quickly when they wear a permanent scowl.

Work is the one big factor upon which increased production depends. Efficient work on the part of everyone, from manager to office boy, is essential if there is to be enough to eat, enough to wear and enough houses in which to live. The prospects are bright if the American people put their shoulder to the wheel. Everyone should find pleasure in filling his job. There is reason to work with a smile. —Plain Dealer.

FASHION.

For Men and Women.

Of all the vile fashions that Satan brings around And changes and fixes so they will be bound.

The modern hair cutting is none of the least; Yet many a devotee with it is pleased. Do you look like a saint whose adornment is grace? Would Jesus do so, do you live for His praise?

The offensive short-cut round the head in cold storm, The fashionable hair in breezes so warm, Bring headache and cold and disease of the lung, And show that your motive in fashion is wrong. The Bible says: "God judges motives," yes, sure; How requisite, then, that your motive be pure.

The popular fashions bring other great sins: Adultery, pride, vanity—what Satan brings. Simplicity, modesty—God wants to teach you. The unsightly hair; the deforming small shoe! The fashionable fineries; the "unseemly" hats!

The limbs and the chest partly nude; Sensual fads! Transparent attire; the mannish garb—all harm you! And other attire—Oh, think, the great harm that they do! Fashions ruin body and soul, some will never repent. Oh, love not the world, and you'll have a sweet end. Ye preachers, be faithful, not fearing you'll hurt; Show people their sins and so "clearing your skirt."

BIDDIE GROWS SPURS

Chicago Surgeon Produces Hen With Knife.

Transplanted Glands Cause Hen to Develop All Characteristics of Chanticleer.

Chicago.—The experiments of Dr. Victor D. Lespinasse of the Northwestern university in tinkering with the sex of the common hen and his demonstrations before medical experts have aroused the interest of chicken growers.

"It was a simple enough operation," explained Doctor Lespinasse; "just the transplanting of the interstitial glands of a rooster to a hen. But the result was surprising and perhaps no one was more surprised than the hen herself. Within a few weeks she began to develop all the characteristics of a chanticleer."

"She grew a comb and wattles. Saddle feathers appeared next and finally a pair of spurs. She took to strutting pompously about the barnyard, lordling it over the other fowls."

"Instead of cackling, our near-rooster would essay a feeble kee-kee. A full-sized hen-crow is about the only thing that's lacking to complete her—or, I might say, his—roosterhood."

The hen is now on a farm in the suburbs of Chicago.

In further experiments with animals, Doctor Lespinasse succeeded recently in producing "Siamese Twin" dogs. These didn't live long, but were perfect specimens.

JUNIOR CHAUTAUQUA

While grownups are attending lectures and entertainments on the Chautauqua program this summer, the kiddies of the neighborhood will find special activities prepared for them as part of the Chautauqua week.

Expert junior workers, drawn from the ranks of public school education, will make possible story telling hours, hikes, games, the presentation of a "Mother Goose" pageant and above all the formation of a Junior Town in which the boys and girls will hold real offices and conduct the affairs of their miniature city in real businesslike fashion.

There will be something doing for the kiddies every day of the Chautauqua—something they will not only like, but which will leave its permanent imprint on their growing lives.

FEAR WOMAN SHERIFF

Female Officer in New Jersey Respected by Lawbreakers.

Soon After Her Appointment Mrs. Duer Demonstrated Her Worth as an Officer.

Red Bank, N. J.—The presence of Mrs. Georgeanna Duer, acting deputy sheriff, in Red Bank, N. J., is said to be responsible for the scarcity of crime in that vicinity. Shortly after her appointment Mrs. Duer demonstrated her worth as an officer, and since that time only a few petty acts of thievery have been reported.

Evildoers steer clear of Sheriff Duer's territory because she has the embarrassing habit of turning up unexpectedly at the right point to intercept the fleeing crook with his plunder. This happens because the woman officer has lived in the same locality for 38 years and knows every crook and turn in the highways, all the trolley connections and short cuts across the country.

Not only the office of deputy sheriff is filled by Mrs. Duer, but those of mayor and chief of police also have her as an incumbent. In the case of the minor offenders whom she arrests, Mayor Duer quickly metes out justice herself. When it is a case of "get out of town in two minutes" the female limb of the law acts in her capacity of chief of police and shows undesirable the shortest route out of Red Bank. She has run twosome or more of these suspicious characters from her domains.

Sheriff Duer is the mother of 15 children, nine of whom are boys. While the latter were growing up she organized them into a baseball team. A collection of prizes won by Sheriff Duer for fancy costumes worn by her or various occasions decorates the Duer home.
